GENERAL STRIKE THREATENED IN NEW YORK

Seek Mutiny Charges Against Striking San Pedro Crew

SHIP TIED UP
THREE DAYS
BY SEAMEN

Liner California, With 400 Passengers Aboard,
Is Still In Port

SAN PEDRO, March 4. (AP)—U. S. District Attorney Pearson Hall said today he had asked the attorney general's office in Washington whether he should seek indictments charging the striking crew of the liner California with mutiny and obstructing the United States mails.

Hall said the strikers' acts in refusing to sail the Panama-Pacific line vessel out of Los Angeles harbor here, and refusing to quit their posts to make way for other seamen might constitute mutiny.

Tied Up Since Monday

The ship has been tied up since Monday morning with more than 400 passengers and 50 sacks of mail aboard.

Company officials said no trouble has been experienced with the crew, which has been performing all duties regularly performed while the ship is in port. Passengers are being fed and enough steam is kept up to heat the ship.

Hall said Bryan McMahon, assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division at Washington promised him in a telephone conversation yesterday to render an opinion on the mutiny question.

Want Increased Pay

The unionized members of the crew, totaling 374 men, decided at a meeting last night to remain on strike against sailing until their demands for increased pay are met.

Further conferences were scheduled today between Panama-Pacific officials and representatives of the crew.

A few of the 441 passengers on the big ship have cancelled reservations, including Lord and Lady Charles Cavendish of England, but most of them waited hopefully.

Convict Slain By Fellow Inmate

SALT LAKE CITY, March 4. (AP)—Ora Thornton, 24, a convict in the Utah state prison here, was stabbed to death this morning and prison officials said Richard Cotti, 24, a fellow convict, was his slayer.

Thornton and Cotti were serving terms of five years to life on robbery charges. Prison records show both had served terms in San Quentin prison in California. The killing was believed to have been done with a knife made in the prison. The weapon was not found immediately.

TO FETE MOTHERS-IN-LAW

Honored In Texas Tomorrow

AUSTIN, Tex., March 4. (AP)—An editor's repentance for calling his wife's mother "the standing army" led today to establishment of a mothers-in-law day in Texas. Continuing a custom memorialized by Gene Howe, Amarillo publisher and columnist, Gov. James V. Allred has set aside tomorrow as the official day for honoring the mothers of all married children.

The mothers-in-law movement in the state was started by Howe after he had offended his own mother-in-law, Mrs. W. F. Donald, with jibes in his column. Then and there, he discontinued calling Mrs. Donald "the standing army" and barred all mother-in-law jokes from his column.

He Has 323 Days to Go!

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, above, today starts his fourth year as President of the United States but will not have a complete year in office since a constitutional amendment changed the date of presidential inauguration from March 4 to Jan. 20 of the year following the election. Counting today, Mr. Roosevelt has 323 days remaining in his first term in office.

'Ugly Duckling' Tells Her
Joy at Having Beauty Back
After Cosmetic Operation

Aimee La Marr, whose plea for plastic surgery to restore her lost youthfulness was answered by a San Francisco surgeon, tells her own story in this exclusive article of how it feels to watch the years dropping off each day from her healing face.—The Editor.

As Told to a News Reporter
(Copyright, 1936, by Daily News Co., Ltd.)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—(Special)—The joy of watching yourself transformed from a wrinkled woman back to a young girl again—you just can't put a sensation like that into words. I feel like a blind person to whom sight has been restored, and who sees a brand new world. It's like Aladdin's Lamp, Cinderella's Slipper, the Wishing Well, and all the other fairy tales, rolled into one.

Nights of Pain

Mind you, this miraculous change did not come about in a day, or even in a week. Before the bandages came off I thought I looked worse than ever. My face was swollen and discolored—a process which the plastic surgeon says is inevitable after a face lifting operation.

There were nights when I could hardly touch my head to a pillow, days when my face was so puffed I could scarcely eat. The actual operation was nothing compared to that. But the first day the bandages came off I could see years—two or three anyway—gone from my face. There was no looking glass in my room at the hospital, but I had a small mirror into which I looked constantly.

Only Slight Scar

The second day I looked positively five years younger. When the stitches were taken out, more years seemed to have slipped away.

Every day made me look younger until now I look—well, what do you think? And I feel correspondingly young. Remember (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

HUTTON BABY
MAY 'COST'
$600,000

Fees For Attendance
Of Countess Barbara
Are Reported High

LONDON, March 4. (AP)—The little Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, already known as the world's richest baby, may also be the world's most costly baby, an authoritative source said today.

His mother, the former Barbara Hutton who is now pronounced well on the road to recovery after complications followed the birth of her first child, is likely to pay about $600,000 in doctor's fees for him, this source said—but will have an opportunity to contribute $600,000 more to hospital charities as a thanks offering.

Fees Not Discussed

British specialists such as Lord Horder, physician in ordinary to King Edward, and the five other specialists in the countess' case, do not discuss actual fees. These are arranged by the family doctor who called in the specialists. Should Barbara desire to show her gratitude to the physicians by charitable donations, however, the sky will be the limit as the hospitals here are maintained almost exclusively by gifts.

Lord Horder is reported greatly interested in a project for a new ward for paying patients at St. Bartholomew's hospital—plans for which recently were approved by parliament with "only the money—$600,000—missing."

Not Unusual

Six hundred thousand dollars for the attention Barbara received for paying patients at St. Bartholomew's hospital—plans for which recently were approved by parliament with "only the money—$600,000—missing."

The all-time high for medical fees is believed to have been reached by a certain Dr. Dimsdale who was paid a fee of $50,000, traveling expenses of $25,000, and a life pension of $250,000 a year for vaccinating former Emperor Frederick of Germany.

NEW DEAL CHEFS TO DROP 700,000 PERSONS FROM WPA JOBS

12 MILLION IN U. S. JOBLESS, UNION SAYS

Relief Funds Dwindle; No Indication Made Of New Financing

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—New Deal officials plan to thin out WPA rolls by more than 700,000 persons in the next four months.

They count on a spring expansion in private employment and on such government activities as road-building and public works projects to absorb many persons now getting relief through the Works Progress administration.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said yesterday the administration believes 100,000 persons a week would be placed in private or other employment from now until July 1.

Funds Nearly Gone
President Roosevelt previously said at his press conference that he had held a parley on unemployment. He said it was an inconclusive discussion of whether industry could absorb more workers.

While relief needs in the fiscal year beginning next July 1 were estimated unofficially at $2,000,000,000, the President gave no indication how much he will ask the present congress to appropriate for this purpose. He said, however, there would be no unobligated funds left from the $4,000,000,000 works fund at the end of this year.

12,000,000 Jobless
At the White House discussion were Secretaries Roper and Perkins, and Major George Berry, coordinator of industrial cooperation. This meeting came only a day after the American Federation of Labor reported 12,000,000 jobless. Commenting on this report, the President said employment always dropped off in January.

Hopkins' estimate of re-employment, if it materializes, would mean a return of more than 1,500,000 to work by July 1. He said WPA would start this month to cut the rolls from the high point of 3,037,440 in February to a minimum of 2,310,000 by June 30.

Is She Hitler's Sweetie?

If an article in Le Journal, a French newspaper, is to be believed, the beautiful Leni Riefenstahl, German screen star shown above, is the latest of five sweethearts of Adolf Hitler, Germany's bachelor dictator. The newspaper story was refuted in Berlin and government officials ordered all copies of the paper seized and destroyed.

MORE ABOUT NEW FACE

before the operation I looked all of 50, though I was only 36.

The best part of it is that the only visible trace of the operation is a fine line running about two inches back of my hair line, and easily concealed by my curls. I never was what you'd call beautiful. I am not exactly beautiful now. But, thanks to the San Francisco plastic surgeon I have my youth back again, and any woman who has seen herself grow old, and yearned to be young, knows what that means. It's so wonderful I have to keep pinching myself to realize it's true. Three weeks ago I was a ranch hand in the Santa Clara valley. There was nothing ahead of me but growing old, doing other people's drudgery.

Neighbors criticized me for the step I was about to take in offering myself, my life if necessary, to a plastic surgeon who would try to make me look young again. They told me I must be crazy. But after I separated from my husband the only work I could get was farm labor. What I wanted more than anything in the world was a decent job.

Maybe An Actress
I can sing and accompany myself on the guitar. I think I could make good on the radio. I love pretty clothes. I luxuriated in the feel of them the other day when I was taken to City of Paris here to try on some fluffy negligees.

I tried to get work in San Jose gown shops, but nobody would have me because I looked so old. There are lots of other things I can do. When I look at myself now, I think I could even be a movie actress.

When a newspaper reporter first came and asked me about offering myself to a plastic surgeon, I told him I was from Los Angeles and that I had been a model there. It was a fib, but I would have done anything to prevent my story from becoming valley gossip.

I'd Do It Again
However, it's out now, and I'll have to make the best of it. If I get a job I will never have to go back there.

I wanted to lose my identity, so I took the name of Aimee La Marr. Aimee is my middle name. I'm trying to forget my real name.

Would I go through it again, knowing what I know about plastic surgery? A thousand times yes. It's a small price to pay for youth.

Espionage Case Probed in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, March 4. (AP)—The Evening Herald and Express says today the United States grand jury here met to investigate a case involving a charge of espionage against the armed forces of the United States.

JOHNSON CANNOT ATTEND MEET HERE

A telegram was received at the farm bureau office here today announcing that Alex Johnson, secretary of the state farm bureau, will be unable to be present as scheduled at tomorrow's meeting of the board of directors. He had planned to come here to discuss matters of common interest between the county and state farm bureaus.

The meeting tomorrow will start at 8 a. m. Reports will be made by President L. A. Bortz and other officers by the tax, water and rural relief projects committees, by the citrus and 4-H club departments and by representatives of the agriculture extension service.

WPA AWAITS A MILLION

The Works Progress administration here is looking for $1,000,000. The money isn't lost. It's just the allotment expected from Washington to carry on construction projects until June 30. Dan Mulholland, WPA administrator for Orange county, said today the allotment is expected to arrive in a few days.

The original commitment to the Orange county WPA was $2,046,101.34, a figure arrived at on the basis of the total cost of all approved projects. Of this sum $971,831.34 remains to be allotted. In the opinion of Mr. Mulholland, it ought to be enough to carry the organization through June 30 and leave a nice balance. The present case load, or total number employed by the WPA, is 3481. The average pay is about $52 a month. On the basis of that figure, it takes approximately $181,012 per month to keep the WPA going.

In the four months between now and June 30, the amount needed would be $724,048. If the next allotment equals the expected $971,831.34, there should be in the neighborhood of $247,000 left on June 30.

NAB CALEXICO PAIR AT BREA

Ray Levy, 24, and Miss Wilma Hamilton, 20, both of Calexico, were arrested in Brea yesterday by Deputy Sheriff James Musick on warrants issued by the Imperial county court. Levy is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and Miss Hamilton is booked at the jail charged with aiding and abetting a criminal.

Deputy Musick and two deputies from Imperial county went to Brea yesterday where the wanted man's brother was believed to be living. They found the brother had moved.

The three deputies decided to have lunch, and during the course of the conversation one of the Imperial deputies remarked he did not believe Levy was aware of the fact that his brother had moved. Deputy Musick left them there and went to the home of the missing brother's mother-in-law. As he drove up in front of the house, he saw Levy walking up the steps. Levy had found his brother's house vacant and had intended to ask the mother-in-law where his brother might be found.

A man and woman in custody in Brea, charged with aiding and abetting yesterday gave Levy and Miss Hamilton a ride out of Calexico. They informed police Miss Hamilton had left a suitcase with them, asking that it be sent to Brea. The pair, arrested at Brea, were taken to Calexico by the two deputies last night.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Virginia M. WATER HEADS RE-ELECTED

After re-electing all officers yesterday afternoon, the Orange County Water District today was embarked on another year with several major projects outlined for its main activity.

These include studies of the advisability of attempting to bring Metropolitan Water District water to parts of Orange county not in the district, and negotiations with upper counties on the Santa Ana river for settlement of litigation over water rights. The district also is carrying on spreading operations on the Santa Ana river above Olive.

Warner Chairman
At yesterday's meeting Willis Warner of Huntington Beach was re-elected chairman of the board. Mayor Frank Champion of Laguna Beach was chosen to serve again as vice president, and C. A. Palmer of Olive was selected for another term as secretary. The board re-elected A. W. Rutan of Santa Ana as its legal counsel, and Paul Bailey, Santa Ana, as consulting engineer.

At the same meeting the board decided to send Mr. Rutan to Salt Lake City to represent it at a western states water conference to be held March 11, 12 and 13. He will leave on March 11.

MWD Report Expected
It is expected that at the board's meeting on March 18 a report on the MWD matter may be made by a committee consisting of William Schumacher, Buena Park, and William Wallop, Anaheim. One of the chief items in which the board is interested is that of cost of bringing the water to Orange county areas not in the Metropolitan district.

C. Roy Browning of Tustin made a general progress report yesterday in regard to water rights litigation on the Santa Ana river. A suit filed by James Irvine in federal court, seeking to establish rights of all users along the river, is still pending. The water district has been seeking to arbitrate the case.

MORE ABOUT STRIKE

dows and attempting to haul away from their posts replacement workers who had taken over their jobs.

Heavy squads of police scattered them, shunting them into side streets and barricading Park avenue.

As peace negotiations were resumed, a temporary lull was broken. Strikers invaded elevators at a building in West Twenty-sixth street. At the twentieth floor the strikers accosted two substitute workers, and were themselves severely beaten.

During a demonstration on the upper west side, a patrolman fired a warning shot into the air. Eight men were arrested at the scene of the clash.

'Everything Lined Up'
Bambrick was not optimistic, concerning an early settlement and said that if no agreements were reached at conferences scheduled today between union leaders and representatives of realty owners he would "pull out the rest of the city."

"I have already given orders to my lieutenants to get everything lined up," he said.

Bambrick said that sections of the city for which no strike calls have been issued were the Grand Central area of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Harlem.

"Harlem will go like a ton of bricks," he declared, "and I really dread calling them out."

The number of buildings involved in the strike was 1400 this morning, the bureau of operations in police headquarters reported, an increase of 97 over last night.

The duster, the U. S. weather bureau reported at Albuquerque, gave evidence of becoming as severe as those which scoured that area, taking a heavy toll of crop and property damage, last year. No immediate relief is in sight, the weather bureau said.

Scout Troop For Youths In County Detention Home Is Planned By Local Leaders

Conceived by Judge Homer C. Ames of the superior court, the idea of establishing a Boy Scout troop for members of the Orange county detention home may materialize when a special committee of scout executives meets at scout headquarters in the Spurgeon building Friday night.

The plan, which has already passed the tentative stage, is expected to be approved at the conference to be attended by Judge Ames; Carl S. Warner of the Orange county probation office; Howard Youel, juvenile probation officer; and Scout Executives M. B. Wellington, president of the council; Harrison E. White, chief secretary of Orange county scouts; and Albert Sitton, Fullerton scout leader.

Scoutmaster for the detention home troop probably will be Howard Youel, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Youel, 530 East Seventeenth street, Santa Ana. Mr. Youel has been connected with the probation office since December.

Twelve to 15 boys of the detention home will be accepted as charter members, and will receive training qualifying them as full-fledged scouts, it is planned. These boys, upon being dismissed from the home, will be eligible to enter any other troop in the county.

Expansion of scout activities in preparation for the big regional camporee which will attract approximately 4000 scouts from four states here May 29-30-31 was foreseen with the approval yesterday of a WPA project calling for extensive improvements at Camp Rokill in the San Bernardino mountains.

Fred Jayne, of the WPA head quarters here, announced through R. R. Russick of the WPA physical education department, that workmen would be sent immediately to the 22-acre camp at Rokill. The camp's sewer system will be modernized, and a new drainage installed for the athletic field. Sleeping quarters also will be improved. The camp, which in its present condition has a high governmental rating, is being renovated to accommodate a larger number of boys. A total of 1385 youngsters used Rokill last year.

Secretary White plans to leave for the east Sunday to attend a scout leaders' conference. While there he will confer with other delegates from this district in regard to the camporee that will be staged for California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada troops at Camp Irvine, near Irvine park, the latter part of May.

The Reuters (English) correspondent in Addis Ababa reported it had been learned semi-officially that Emperor Haile Selassie probably will agree to the league's appeal for peace negotiations.

County Employees Holding Up Action On Civil Service

Any decision of Orange county to place employees and officials of counties on a civil service rating will be postponed until a copy of the proposed constitutional amendment is secured for study, it was decided at Monday's meeting of the employees' association.

Under the plan as proposed civil service rating would be automatically granted all employees with a year or more service record. Those with a six months record would be placed on "probationary" civil service, with full rating to follow at the end of the year.

The proposal, which had its start in San Francisco and Los Angeles, would be placed on the election ballot next November, to be ratified or rejected by voters of the state.

The meeting on Monday, called by officers of the Orange county Employee association, was for the purpose of reading and discussing literature and correspondence sent out by Los Angeles headquarters on the scheme. A desire was expressed to see the proposed measure before any action of the association was taken. An assessment of 15 per cent of one month's salary was asked from each employee enrolling, to help defray expenses of the campaign.

The plan would apply to the heads of appointive offices as well as to departmental employees.

E. R. Abbey, county coroner, was elected secretary-treasurer of the employees' association to fill a vacancy. Sheriff Logan Jackson presided.

These Drivers Kept Cars In Right Lane To Win 'Gas'

The careful drivers win again—three of them—in today's traffic safety contest conducted by The Journal. Here are the license numbers of their cars:
6T 1174, 8X 8497 and 8X 2661.
Drivers of these cars each won five gallons of gasoline today by keeping their automobiles properly in the right-hand lane of traffic on Main street. That sounds like a simple thing to do, but everyone knows there are annoying drivers who straddle the traffic lines and make it difficult for cars behind them to pass, without crowding over to the left side of the highway.

Drivers of these automobiles must bring their cars to The Journal office and identify themselves before 6 p. m. tomorrow in order to claim their prizes. These awards are being made each day, and the contest is being staged in an effort to keep the public aware of the necessity for careful driving.

The contest is The Journal's contribution to reduction of traffic accidents.
Tomorrow the basis of the contest will be driving at the proper speed through school pedestrian lanes. When children are in these zones, drivers must stop; but even when the zones are empty of children, drivers are required to pass through them at a cautious rate of speed.
Yesterday's winners were 7N 1482, 7N 2604 and 8N 5738. They must claim their awards before 6 p. m. today.

R. W. Townsend, Nash-Lafayette dealer at 319 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, announces three winners in the Nash Motor company contest, "Name-the-Motor." The winners are Herman W. Meyer of 1405 N. Flower, Santa Ana; George L. Lucas, 141 Malvern avenue, Fullerton, and George R. Ziegler, Chula Vista. They each have received a check for five dollars from Mr. Townsend. More than 85,000 entries were carefully considered in the contest, said Mr. Townsend, and the big winners will be announced by posters in the firm's show windows here.

Another big school bus is ready for delivery at O. H. Egge Co.'s plant at Fifth and Ross streets. This is not news, you say. But just listen... it's an all-steel affair, nothing but the Firestone rubber tires and the leather upholstery keeping it from being a 100 per cent steel job.

Not only is this bus different as to material used in its make-up, but the big 110-h.p. Waukesha motor has moved its regulation abode and is found at the rear of the body doing a pushing instead of a pulling job, and doing it in a manner that may cause all buses to adopt this position for their power house instead of the old "under the hood" position. It's a beautiful job and one that the Egge company is rightfully proud of; first class and modern to the minute, carrying a full streamline body 32 feet 8 inches in length, rigidly installed upon a Fageol safety coach chassis, with a wheel base of only 181 inches, enabling the big car to turn in practically the same space as used by the common large passenger pleasure car.

Equipped with shatter-proof glass, indirect lighting system, genuine leather upholstery with the Egge company's own patented steel spring-effect backs for the seats.

The bus will be delivered to the Orange Union High school for use at that school about March 10.

Modern fuel for motor cars has changed as much as late model cars, according to A. P. Benson, of Benson's Texaco Service station, at 16th and Main, known as the "friendly corner."

If your carburetor and timing have not been adjusted for a number of years, it is more than likely your car is not getting maximum efficiency from your gasoline, says Mr. Benson. Gasoline today is especially made for different geographical locations and a car taken from one point in the United States to another should be adjusted to meet the new conditions, he suggests.

A new book on the rubber industry, "The House of Goodyear," written by Hugh Allen, author of "The Story of the Airship" and other books, is announced for publication this month, according to W. Sebel, manager of the Santa Ana Goodyear Service Stores at 202 South Main street.

While the book is a history of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., it will deal also with industry problems, the world-wide ramifications of rubber growing and its upsetting price movements, the cotton situation, personnel and labor problems, development and research. The book also takes up an extended discussion of marketing and economic conditions in the industry up to the present day. Publication of the book will be handled by the Superior Printing & Lithographing Co., of Akron.

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—"Amos 'n Andy" have repaid to the Reconstruction Finance corporation a $2 loan, but Chairman Jesse H. Jones said he was holding out for interest on the obligation.

The RFC advanced the $2 more than a year ago on application of the radio comedians for funds to operate their "Fresh-Air Taxi company."

Jones said "Amos 'n Andy" paid off with "a good check," but that corporation financial experts were figuring on the interest due and that they would be billed for this.

STATE HAS NEW PLAN TO BREAK UP AUTO THEFT RINGS

TO CHECK ON ADDRESSES OF OWNERS

Agents This Year Will Weed Out Fictitious Registrations

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—A plan to reduce California's list of 25,000 fictitious or incorrect addresses of automobile owners as a step toward cracking down on the activities of auto theft rings is taking shape on the desk of Ray Ingels, director of motor vehicles.

Ingels said one of the "favorite" means employed by automobile thieves to carry out their operations is to obtain sets of plates by giving fictitious addresses, in many instances "vacant lots."

Survey This Year

"During 1936 a corps of investigators is going to make a start to run down these instances in which registration slips are returned as no such address or 'incorrect address,'" Ingels said.

"By 1937 I hope to compile a complete list of these returned cards in such a way that every registration clerk in every branch office will have before him every fictitious or incorrect address."

Check Easily Made

"If the plate number is in the file, my idea is that the clerk would immediately call an officer. If the applicants merely had failed to notify the department of his change of address, that could be quickly determined, and if there was suspicion of illegal use of the plates an investigation could follow."

Ingels said he thought such a campaign would prove a "body blow" to auto thieves, many of whom use false-address plates extensively on machines they have stolen, replacing the original plates with them.

ORANGE DRIVER FACING SUIT

Suit was instituted by Bert M. Carner, grammar school principal of Solvang, Calif., against Henry F. NO LICENSES FOR DRIVERS

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Five million motor vehicles in 11 states are being operated without the requirement of drivers' licenses, according to the National Highway Users Conference. Following a nation-wide survey that exposed the extremes between states in procedure incident to granting licenses, the conference asserted.

"Although a model driver's license act was developed back in 1923 as part of the uniform motor vehicle code, we find that, figuring an average of one and one-half drivers to every vehicle, there are more than 7,000,000 unlicensed operators in Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee and Wyoming."

"In addition, there is no uniformity as regards the license period, it varying from one year to life; nor is there any uniformity as to the fee, which ranges from 25 cents to $5. This lack of uniformity has a direct bearing on safety because a driver's license is a powerful factor in control. The power the courts and authorities have to suspend or revoke licenses on the basis of major offenses should be strengthened by extension of licensing laws to all states and by injection of uniformity into those laws."

CONFER HERE ON STORM WATERS

Preliminary steps toward a solution of the dumping of Santa Ana storm waters on the Delhi drainage district were taken Tuesday at a meeting in the city council chambers. The session, attended by city officials and the district's board of directors, was designed to familiarize the participants with the nature of the problem. Councilman Ernest Layton presided.

The district takes Santa Ana storm waters, but is under no legal obligation to do so, it was explained at the meeting. It is insisting on a solution of the problem. The district feels that it may become liable by allowing Santa Ana storm waters to flow through its conduits in case the flood water causes damage to property.

Among those attending the session were M. O. Robbins, secretary of the district; A. W. Rutan, legal counsel; Mr. Layton; City Attorney L. W. Blodgett, and City Engineer J. L. McBride.

Maximum Weights Told

With the construction of better highways and the engineering and building on the part of truck manufacturers of the multiple axle truck and trailer combinations, the destructive action of weight on our highways has been eliminated.

The following maximum weights on pneumatic tires govern the operation of all trucks: Maximum weight per axle, 17,000 pounds; maximum weight per wheel, 9,000 pounds; maximum weight one vehicle, two axle, 26,000 pounds; maximum weight one vehicle, three axle, 34,000 pounds; maximum weight one vehicle, six or more axles, 68,000 pounds.

The maximum weight of 68,000 pounds can be carried on a truck with six or more axles, but is cushioned on 22 pneumatic truck tires.

Night Driving Laws

Much of the resentment and complaint on the part of the automobile public against the use of the highways by trucks has been eliminated through the passage and enforcement of recent laws. This is particularly true in the matter of lights for night driving. The length and width of any truck operating at night must be clearly outlined with marker lights. In addition all trucks must be equipped with one tail light and one reflector, and in the case of

Development of Trucks Is Related by Santa Anan

By GARRY GAROWAY
Of the Truck Department of L. D. Coffing Co., Distributors of Dodge Trucks for Orange County

The development of the modern motor truck to its present state of efficiency and safety has been governed primarily on a basis of speed and load. When trucks first came into general use, the pneumatic truck tire, as we know it today, was unknown. Trucks then were built to carry heavy loads, of course, but were designed to operate at speeds not in excess of 16 miles per hour, and solid tires were the only equipment used.

Operating on the then poorly constructed highways, these heavily laden trucks with their solid tire equipment aroused a wave of resentment and complaint from the automobile public because of their destruction of the highways.

With the development of the pneumatic truck tire and the passage and enforcement of laws governing allowable loads per tire size, and maximum allowable loads on axles and wheels, much of this feeling has vanished and a properly equipped truck now does far less damage than many automobiles.

OPEN REDLANDS HIGHWAY LINK

Formally opened to traffic recently, the new $400,000 link of Highway 99 in the city of Redlands provides motorists with a safe, modern, wide-paved diagonal through the community, reports the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Swinging off of Colton avenue at the north end of Redlands, the new route passes through the center of town, encountering only one major intersection and one major railroad crossing before leading out of the city toward Beaumont, Banning and the Coachella valley. The old alignment contained two right angle turns and two dangerous grade crossings.

HIGHWAY IMPROVED

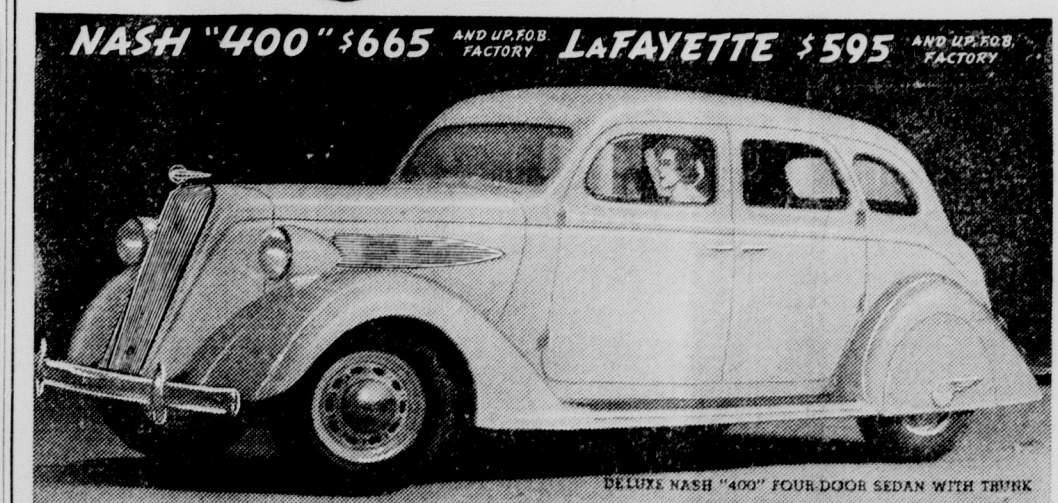

Resurfacing operations on the highway between Thermal, Riverside county, and the junction of Highway 99 and former Highway 60, northwest of Coachella, are more than half completed. The work will extend south of Thermal for approximately two miles.

TO IMPROVE ROAD

Palomar Mountain road in San Diego county is to be improved from Iron Spring creek to the observatory site under contract recently awarded.

HIGHER 'GAS' TAX PROVES HARMFUL

Higher gasoline tax rates imposed in the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware last year had a definitely harmful economic effect, it is revealed in a report received by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Loss of gasoline and oil business to other states, decreased use of motor vehicles, reduced consumption of motor fuel and lubricants, and an increase in tax evasion have occurred in those states, the report discloses.

Two other states which raised gasoline tax rates last year were not included in the study, Connecticut because only the first month's figures were available, and Nebraska because the increase was declared unconstitutional.

In all three states dealt with in the report, a substantial gain in gasoline consumption over the previous year had been made prior to the tax increases. After the higher rates became effective the gain was reduced in Delaware and virtually wiped out in Pennsylvania and New York. Meanwhile consumption in the remainder of the country gained about 8 per cent.

Partially due to reduction in consumption and partly to a greater amount of tax evasion, it was found that the gas tax increases did not produce proportionately greater returns in revenues.

BOY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

George Ketscher, 12, of 1067 East Fourth street, sustained injuries to his legs at 4:30 p. m. Monday when he was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Edith P. Gobar of Fullerton. The accident occurred in the 1100 block on East Fourth street, when the steering apparatus on Mrs. Gobar's automobile broke. Her car also crashed into two other parked machines.

The boy was in the street when he was hit, and jumped to the running board of another parked car. He was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where it was reported he had suffered a deep cut on the right leg. He is the son of George M. Ketscher.

The cars struck by the Gobar machine are registered to Miss Nadine Williams, 422 South Flower street, and Loretta Long, 429 Linwood street.

Smooths Dents in New Deal Preparatory to Election

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—The beginning of President Roosevelt's fourth year in the White House today found him smoothing over dents in the New Deal program preparatory to facing the voters in November.

While the chief executive sought to restore a budget battered by congress and the fall of AAA, aides were swiftly swinging the $500,000,000 a year farm subsidy plan into a keystone position occupied by AAA before it was invalidated by the supreme court.

Turning Point
Many observers believe history may record the third year as the turning point in the New Deal. During the first part of the year, the spirit of reform was still dominant. Much new legislation was pressed through congress. But suddenly the President announced a "breathing spell," and the New Deal devoted much of its attention to fighting in the courts to preserve its measures and consolidate its ground.

With controversy over government spending raging as the gross public debt reached a new all-time high of $30,500,000,000, the President promised decreasing governmental deficits and indicated a hunt was on for places to retrench.

Supreme Court Busy
The supreme court, which had played little part in the first two years of the New Deal, suddenly swung into action in the third year. The AAA, NRA and some less vital laws were declared unconstitutional.

President Roosevelt met the NRA decision with a warning that it would return the nation to the "horse and buggy" era. There was unofficial talk of a constitutional amendment to broaden the federal government's powers. Instead of greeting the AAA decision the same way, he asked and got substitute legislation.

Permanent Laws
A favorable court decision on the sale of power under the Tennessee Valley Authority act took some of the edge off the growing issue of the supreme court's powers and the constitution.

Besides three years of emergency legislation, the New Deal has enacted many permanent laws which will be prominently displayed during the campaign year. These include the Social Security act, securities regulation, vast programs for cheaper power, bank reforms, utility holding company regulation and reciprocal tariff for bargaining legislation.

Compared with three years ago business is booming, but unemployment and relief are still major problems.

BIRTHDAY PARTY IS STRONG HABIT; TAKES PARTY TO L.A.

When Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, 1322 South Birch street, was presented with a young son as a birthday gift 21 years ago today, she felt it was quite an occasion. And ever since that date, the two of them, her son, Lucian, and she, have had a birthday party.

Twenty other joint birthday parties had established too much of a habit to break, declared Mrs. Wilson.

EROSION TOUR TO BE FRIDAY

Farmers may want rain, but they would rather some other date than next Friday, it was indicated today when Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg announced a growers' tour to inspect a soil conservation program under way in an area near El Toro. Unless rain makes the dirt roads impassable, the tour will start at 1 p. m. Friday, he said.

Various types of erosion control will be observed. The purpose of the project at El Toro is to demonstrate how soil erosion problems of this region can be handled.

INDUSTRIALS FAVORED ON MARKET

Bullish Views On New Tax Program Held As Issues Shoved Up

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—The stock market today apparently continued to hold bullish views on the new national tax program and buyers again bid up industrial specialties.

While many of the leaders moved up fractions to 2 or more points to new highs, numerous others, including the motors and rails, were only slightly ahead. A fast opening, which pressed the ticker tape for a time, was followed by a slowing of the pace. Some profit taking was evident in scattered issues.

Among the best share performers were Allied Chemical, Du Pont, American Can, Westinghouse, International Harvester, National Cash Register, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Montgomery Ward, Seaboard Oil, Schenley, Budd Mfg., Container Corp., U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas and Western Union. American Telephone drifted somewhat lower.

Although the tax proposals were studied with mixed sentiment in the financial district, opinions as to their near-future and ultimate effect on stocks were also diverse. It was not overlooked that the final decision on the President's revenue plans rests with congress, and what this body will do with the recommendations was seen as a matter of conjecture.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—A late break in Chrysler stemmed the general advance in today's stock market, although scattered industrial specialties continued to exhibit firmness.

The motor issues gave way under profit taking, along with a number of other recent leaders. Support near the finish. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 2,900,000 shares. Closing prices:

WEEDEN CO.'S BID TAKEN BY BOARD

Net Interest Payment
Under 2 1/2 Per Cent;
12 Offers Made

The bid of Weeden and company, Los Angeles bond house, for the purchase of the $140,000 issue of Santa Ana High school bonds voted for construction work was accepted by the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon.

Weeden and company offered par value for the bonds, to be carried at an interest rate less than 2 1/2 per cent over all. The first $25,000 worth of bonds, according to the contract, will draw 5 per cent interest, the remaining $115,000 to draw 2 1/2 per cent interest.

The gross interest rate on the bond issue to be paid the company is $24,862.50, minus a $26 premium offered, making the net interest come to $24,836.50.

Offers Exceptional

The 12 offers made for the purchase of the bonds, County Auditor W. T. Lambert said, was the most exceptional in the history of the county, and paid high tribute to the excellent financial condition of Orange county and of Santa Ana in particular. Interest rates were the lowest ever asked for.

Second bidder was the Bank of America corporation, offering par value, the bonds to carry a 2 1/2 per cent interest rate over all. The net interest on the Bank of America offer would be $25,048.

Schwabacher, Dean-Witter company was third low bidder, with a net interest demand of $25,250. Differences in virtually all the bids were commensurate with the premium offered by purchasers, it was explained, as all interest rates specified were for approximately 2 1/2 per cent, with the exception of the bid of the Security First National bank, which asked for 3 per cent interest, offering a $3178 premium.

Other Bidders

Other bidders included Banks-Huntley company, Harris Trust company of Chicago, Shaw-Glover company, William Staats company, Anglo-California bank, Mortimer company, First Boston corporation and the Revel, Miller corporation.

The board of education met yesterday afternoon following the board of supervisors meeting to cancel requests for a federal loan and grant in connection with the building program, and to substitute a request for grant only as a result of accepting the bid of the Los Angeles concern for the sale of the bonds.

The inset shows a building which occupied the present Rankin store site in 1897, when that picture was taken.

P. T. A. COUNCIL NOMINATES

Tabulation of nominating blanks from members of the Santa Ana Council of Parents and Teachers brought the naming of Mrs. John J. Mills for a second term as president of the city council yesterday at a meeting in the Roosevelt assembly room.

Others nominated were Mrs. James Givens, first vice president; Mrs. Floyd Mitchell, second vice president; Mrs. E. H. Elmer, recording secretary; Mrs. Dale Elliott, treasurer, and Mrs. D. H. Tidball, historian.

At the election meeting in April, further nominations can be made from the floor, Mrs. Mills announced. The tabulating committee yesterday included Mrs. H. J. Howard, Hoover; Mrs. Rufus Bond, Lathrop; Mrs. Neal Beisel, junior college; Mrs. Charles Briscoe, Roosevelt; and Mrs. R. E. McBurney, Lincoln.

An increase to 1373 over 1288 members last year was announced for the city by Mrs. Givens, membership chairman. The council has until March 15 to reach its goal of 1500 members for the current year.

The highest percentage increase in membership for any association this year was made by Lathrop with a 42 per cent tally. Mrs. Harry Becker, founder's day chairman, announced a gift of $33.25 for Founder's day toward the state welfare department.

URGE RECOGNITION FOR NEGRO SCOUT

Henry Maunier, 17-year-old Eagle Scout, a Negro who received a national life-saving award for bravery in saving a woman from drowning last April, will be recommended for further recognition.

The Orange county Boy Scout council, through Harrison E. White, general secretary, is seeking a Veterans of Foreign Wars scholarship which will enable the colored youth to continue his education at the university of his selection.

Young Maunier, member of Scoutmaster Vernon Orr's troop No. 5, Newport Beach, is an outstanding student at Newport Harbor High school, where he is serving as vice president of the student body.

The Rankin Dry Goods Company will begin celebration of its 42nd birthday anniversary tomorrow by launching a store-wide sale. It was 42 years ago this month that J. H. Rankin founded the store, with his partner, W. A. Huff. Mr. Rankin's son, Herbert P. Rankin, is now general manager of the store.

The sale is the result of months of planning and unusual interest is expected to be shown by the public in the quality goods to be displayed. The event will last for 15 days. The store's complete stock of regular quality merchandise will be offered at tempting prices.

Goods of High Quality

It was explained today that the success of the Rankin store has been based upon the handling of very high quality goods and rendering real service to the public. Even during the recent depression the quality of the goods was maintained.

One of the greatest achievements of the past year at the Rankin store was the remodeling of the second floor, which has been talked about throughout Southern California.

Service Is Factor

Although the business was founded 42 years ago when horses and buggies lined the curbs instead of automobiles, the management is looking forward to still greater success in the future, based on the same policy of selling quality merchandise, it was explained today. Service to the public has always been a prime factor in the Rankin policy, it was pointed out, and this consists also in carefully searching the markets for goods to answer the needs of customers.

When the store was founded, it was known as Rankin and Huff and was located in the Minter building at 107 West Fourth street. The business grew consistently, and in 1917 moved to its present quarters at Fourth and Sycamore, which were built by Mrs. Susan Rutherford of Balboa. The business was incorporated in 1907 with J. H. Rankin as president and Herbert P. Rankin as secretary-treasurer and general manager.

J. C. STUDENT FUND DRIVE PLANNED

Annual Report Given on Loans Made to Pupils There

With the announcement this week of the annual report of the Santa Ana Junior College student loan fund, plans are being made for a penny drive on the junior college campus, according to D. K. Hammond, director of the day-care.

According to the report, the student loan fund has outstanding loans totaling $13,148.47, but has made total loans of $21,633.97. A total of $2214 was loaned during the past year to 25 students, all graduates of the junior college. Repayments to the total of $3315 was made by 13 students who had received loans in former years.

Many to Orange Grads

Loans are not restricted to Santa Ana High school graduates, as more than $2400 has been loaned to Orange High school graduates alone, Mr. Hammond pointed out. A total of $1132.78 was contributed to the student loan fund last year by various local organizations. The individual contributions were: Print shop book profits, $50; Pan Hellenic society, $175; penny drive, $33.22; Woodrow Wilson P. I. A., $2.50; Ebbed society, $22; Charles F. Smith, $10; adult education drive, $27.31; Las Gitanas, $15; Silver Cord lodge No. 505, $8.35; S. A. lodge No. 241, $8.35; Jubilee lodge, $8.35; Vera Getty benefit, $47.40; A. A. U. W., $75.

The fund is under the management of a self-perpetuating committee of five trustees, E. M. Nealley, chairman, Mrs. Robert Northross, Mrs. Jennie L. Tessimann, J. Russell Bruff, and D. K. Hammond, all members of the junior college faculty, and is incorporated as a non-profit organization.

Louise Sexton, president of the organization, is in charge of the drive. Committee chairman for the benefit are Mary Wallace and Edna Wilson, publicity; Joseph Langland, containers; Katherine Bolton, classes, and Alice Compton, prizes.

The Federal Land bank has made loans totaling $3,797,330 in Orange county, it was revealed today by C. A. Palmer, secretary of the Orange County National Farm Loan Association. Mr. Palmer made public a table showing loans, as well as the value of the 1934 citrus crop in Southern California counties. DECISION NOT TO AFFECT PACT TEST

Orange Shipping Case
Here To Go Ahead,
Says Menton

Upholding of the 1933 prorate act by the state supreme court on Saturday probably will have no effect upon the case launched here recently against Withers Brothers of Placentia, in which they were accused of shipping oranges in intra-state commerce without having an allotment. This opinion was expressed today by District Attorney W. F. Menton, who filed the local action.

He declined, however, to express a definite opinion until he has received a copy of the supreme court's decision on the prorate.

The Withers Brothers case was filed under the California agricultural adjustment act, which is distinct from the prorate law. The defendants were accused of shipping oranges in violation of this law. In the prorate matter, validity of the prorate was questioned by lemon shippers. In still another case market control for grapefruit has been attacked.

Under the California A.A. shippers must apply to the growers' advisory committee for allotments. It is contended that Withers Brothers did not do this. In the case decided by the supreme court, lemon growers opposed formation of a lemon prorate district and sought to restrain enforcement of the state prorate commission's orders.

A hearing is scheduled before Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel in superior court here Friday, at which a temporary injunction against Withers Brothers will be sought. Mr. Menton said he expects to have a copy of the supreme court's opinion before that time and will be able to determine whether or not it affects the Orange county case.

'Sugar and Spice' Proves Popular Diet With S. A. Clubwomen and Husbands

Whitaker Is Presented By Ebell

Junior Clubwomen Play Hostess at Program for Guest Groups

Her face may be funny, her way of bobbing up and down suggestive of Charlotte Greenwood—but Alma Whitaker can deliver the goods just as satisfyingly in person as in her "Sugar and Spice" column.

Alma Whitaker proved that as she rambled on and on from her train trip with Michael Arien to bacon and eggs with John Masefield, and permitted never a dull moment during her address to Santa Ana Junior Ebbels and their husbands, escorts and Senior Ebell guests last night in Ebell clubhouse auditorium.

Lauding Eleanor Roosevelt, she said: "She's charming, delightful, utterly natural... always appreciative... she's learned other things to take the place of beauty."

"All us homely women know we're homely; don't ever imagine we don't... she didn't win a man like Franklin Delano Roosevelt without some enticements!"

Even more than Mrs. Roosevelt, General Evangeline Booth dragged the columnist through hectic hours, and led her down the "salvation trail" six times.

How Prince Gustav of Sweden was served chicken twice each day in his first three months in America, the pathos of Charlie Chaplin's early life in a London workhouse, Mrs. Patrick Campbell's "broodies" in Hollywood and Masefield's firm refusal to express his condolence in advance of King George's death each further won the audience to the animated Alma.

Her train interview with Michael Arien, whom she found astonishingly small and sandy-haired—her opinions of Ronald Coleman's unfailing decorum and Leslie Howard's magnetic smile—suggested that wherever her pencil has tracked down a story, a sub-story has resulted for Alma, who rattled off anecdotes aplenty for an audience reluctant to see her leave the speaker's stand.

Mrs. Robert Guild, program chairman, introduced the exceedingly popular and clever speaker. Miss Nan Mead conducted the business meeting in which Mesdames Robert Guild, Thoburn White, Albert Harvey, Don Park and Q. L. Hardy were selected for the junior Ebell nominating committee to report next month.

DECORATIVE TABLE HIGHLIGHTS BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

Harmony Bridge club members had a symphony in lavender, pink and yellow awaiting them yesterday noon when they entered the small dining room of the Masonic temple.

A large silver bowl centered the table. At either end were smaller silver bowls with a silver candleabra, holding three candles in the same shades. Yellow flowers predominated the center spread. The luncheon menu, itself, followed the same color scheme.

In the play of cards during the afternoon, prizes in auction went to Mrs. Walter Wright and Mrs. C. A. Rousseau. Contract awards were presented to Mrs. W. C. McFarren and Mrs. George Shippe.

New members were Mrs. Forest White and Mrs. William Holmes. Others present included Mesdames Alex Rex, Paul Cozad, Don Edwards, Max Gowdy, Glenn Lyan, C. L. Neuschwanger, Charles Ryan, Nellie Young, Osborne Holmes, Augusta Whisenand, Elizabeth Gowdy and Ray H. Snyder.

"MARY JONES GIVES UP MATRIMONY FOR THIRD TIME."

"COUPLE CHANGE PARTNERS IN MARRIAGE." Similar headlines glare at us every day. Is it then any wonder we begin to think that most of the populace considers marriage a dizzy ride on a merry-go-round, where one or the other of the involved parties may jump off at the first weakening of the music?

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women

How close together do you think children should be, in years, in a family?

Mrs. Lloyd Horal: I think, two or three years. They play together then and their wants are much the same.

Mrs. P. R. Arnold: My children were 15 months apart. At the time, it was very hard, but their closeness of age has brought them much closer together than the average brother and sister. If children are four or five years apart in age, their interests are different. It depends on the health of the mother and on the family's financial status. I should think. However, it is very fine to have them nearly the same age, if possible.

TWO BRIDES-ELECT SURPRISED AT SAME SHOWER PARTY

It was a surprise for Misses Miriam Samuelson and Roselind Schilling last night at the party given for them by Mrs. Paul Reynolds in her home on West Ninth street. Because it turned out to be a surprise for both, when each thought it was to honor the other.

fifth divorce or an exchange of husbands and wives creates public furor is enough indication that such procedures are the unusual, not the routine. When the time comes that a divorcee's picture isn't important enough for a Sunday supplement and neighbors may exchange husbands as they do recipes for coconut cake, we may fear the breaking up of the family as a permanent institution.

Meantime, there are enough people who have discovered that they used excellent taste in their first selection, to imbue tomorrow's brides with hope.

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

BOY SCOUTERS in Buena Park have become property owners. Recently they purchased a lot at the corner of Western avenue and Eighth street. Now they're planning a campaign to obtain enough money for construction of a building.

They shouldn't have much trouble raising the money. Folks everywhere know how much good the Scouts do, and in Buena Park they're especially active. One method they're going to use is to place boxes in all business houses for contributions. What they should do is place a Scout beside each box, and as he does his good turn for the day, have him point out the box to the person he aids. We think that E. W. Bloise, W. D. Cannon, Homer Kreps, Karl Brenner, C. Brisco and J. W. Schiller should be complimented on their Scout troop and the method in which the boys are starting out to get their own building.

Speaking of Buena Park, we hear they're still having accidents at the main intersection there.

If you'll remember, Manchester avenue crosses Grand avenue right in the business district. Seems that, every hour of the day and night drivers are bumping into each other. Residents are urging a four-way boulevard stop, so as to cut down the wrecks as much as possible.

It might not be such a bad idea for 'em to start a community junk yard and salvage all wrecked autos from the crossing to pay for the stop signs.

Isn't we helpful?

After worrying for some time about Newport's huge Harbor Homecoming in May, and the proposal that boosters obtain the first steamer to operate in the bay to participate in the parade, we finally got busy and read a book. Now, we're worried, because there are a number of early-day boats mentioned, and we don't know which one should be considered.

First, there's a small, side-wheel steamer, our book says, which first visited the bay in 1865. She was the "Vaquero."

"The small ship would negotiate the somewhat uncertain entrance to the bay and tie up to the bank near the present west end of the coast highway bridge, across the north end of the harbor," it says. "Cargoes of hides and tallow from the Rancho de San Joaquin were the incentive for these trips of the 'Vaquero,' which made San Diego its home port. About 1865, the 'Vaquero' was bought by an old seafaring man, Capt. Moses Abbott."

That's about all we could learn about that boat. Next are mentioned two sailing schooners, "Moses" and "Susie," owned by the John Hooper Company and on a regular run from San Francisco to Newport. After that they added the "Twin Sisters."

And then—here's what interested us—the McFadden brothers, James and Robert, built the "Newport," a boat with shallow draft "to permit entering the bay without undue difficulty." She was built in 1876 and operated until 1877, when the owners sold her to the Pacific Steamship Company. For several years after that the boat operated between the harbor and San Francisco. Then, as far as we're concerned, she dropped from sight.

Wouldn't it be fine, if they could find either the "Vaquero" or "Newport" to enter in the parade?

While reading our book, we also found something else of interest. It was about the Newport pier. For many years we've heard fishermen on that pier argue about location of the boxcars supposed to be in the water off the end of the pier. Now we're disappointed to learn that those cars aren't there at all.

Here's what our book said: Along about 1887, the pier was first built, and in 1892, on Washington's birthday, a vicious storm wrecked 600 feet of the new structure. Three flatcars went into the sea.

"The subsequent history of the three flatcars was quite remarkable," our book points out. "Within a comparatively short time one washed ashore four miles west of the pier and another near 23rd street. On April 15, 1915, a quarter of a century later, the third car, in good condition, drifted up against the old piles of the 26th street pier. So unusual was this occurrence that the Santa Fe railway sent out and salvaged the car for a freak exhibit."

And that was the end of the flatcars.

OIL OPERATORS IN DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO RAISE PRICES

H. B. GROUPS AGREE TO CURTAIL

All Producers Will Be Asked To Join In 10-day Program

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—In a desperate attempt to raise the price of crude oil, about 20 major and independent oil operators in the Huntington Beach field agreed to curtail production for 10 days at a mass meeting held in the city hall here yesterday afternoon.

R. H. Garrison, chairman of the Huntington Beach Oil Producers' committee, called the meeting. Representatives attending the meeting volunteered to ask other operators in the field also to curtail in the plan to attempt to increase the price on 27-gravity crude oil, which is 90 cents per barrel. The producers are endeavoring to decrease production in the old field 2000 barrels over quota and 1000 barrels in the new field.

It was proposed at the meeting to divide the field into three areas. One area would include the old field, a second, the west end of the new field beyond Twenty-third street, and the third area the district east of Twenty-third street. This plan will be submitted to the central pro-rata committee of California for approval.

Mr. Garrison named a sub-committee, chiefly comprised of engineers, to consider problems of operators regarding production. This committee will hold its first meeting in the oil umpire's office in Los Angeles at 10 a. m. Friday, March 13.

A second meeting of the committee will be held in Huntington Beach at 2 p. m. the following Monday for the same purpose.

The sub-committee include Art Anderson, Holly Oil Co., chairman; P. C. McConnell, Standard Oil Co.; R. B. Hodgson, Associated Oil Co.; Harold Pauley, Petrol Oil Co.; R. H. Pence, representative of the state, and Al Burkett, independent operator.

The afternoon program will be held on the high school athletic field, as in other years, and will be a series of athletic events for adults and children.

Plans for the evening's entertainment have yet to be made, but street dancing, band music, and the possibility of obtaining the Gilmore circus are being considered. GRANDSTAND MEET TOPIC

Civic Projects To Be Discussed By Orange City Council

ORANGE.—Ball fans will be provided with a grandstand adjacent to the diamond in the city park if plans to be presented at tonight's city council meeting are approved by that body, and then by the district, state and national WPA which would bear 80 per cent of the cost of the project.

Councilman A. H. Heim, park commissioner, and R. W. Miller, who drew the plans, have visited several grandstands in the county in order to draw up the necessary plans. The proposed grandstand will be 12 rows of seats high, and 60 feet long. It will materially add to attractiveness of the park, which is being rapidly completed.

Work on the bath house is being rushed, in order that the swimming pool may be opened in the early summer. At a meeting of the May Day committee held Tuesday at the Sunshine Broller, it was decided to hold separate celebrations for May Day and the opening of the city park, with a suitable program to be given at the park for the latter event.

Mayor C. J. Hessel and Councilman Ed Chapman announced Tuesday that they are still undecided as to whether or not they will file a nomination petition for re-election. One new candidate for city council entered the race yesterday, in addition to the four already entered. Carl Glasbrenner, special insurance agent, and president of the Men's club, took out nominating papers, with the petition being circulated by S. B. Edwards. Other new council candidates are H. Roy Perkins, C. M. Carlson, A. C. Boice and Henry Bandick.

LAGUNA COUNCIL REJECTS HIGHWAY TREE PROPOSAL

LAGUNA BEACH.—A resolution that the city provide for maintenance of trees and shrubs which the state has offered to plant along the southern city limits of Coast highway, was rejected by a vote of three to two at a council meeting here Monday.

Mayor Frank Champion and Councilman Thomas A. Cummings were in favor of the city assuming this responsibility, following the 60-day preliminary maintenance provided by the state highway division.

Mrs. Henry K. Beckwith spoke for the Garden club and the Woman's club during the discussion, voicing these organizations' approval of the city assuming the responsibility of maintaining the proposed planting program.

Councilman L. F. Mallowstrongly protested the city's assuming this financial burden, as did Councilmen George Wilson and H. G. Heisler. It was their contention that this work should be paid out of the city's share in the state gas tax fund. A motion to this effect was made and was favorably acted upon. Fate of the $6000 beautification project now rests with state highway officials, as it is a matter of diverting state highway maintenance funds to this purpose, rather than taking money from the general funds.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Tentative plans for a lighting district here were heard by members of the local chapter, Riviera of America association, when G. H. P. Dellmann, lighting engineer, was speaker at a luncheon yesterday noon.

Boundaries of the proposed district were set the same as those of the sanitary district. Mr. Dellmann told members. Twenty-seven lights were recommended, at a monthly cost per light of $4.51. The proposed district would cost about 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation, he said.

Residents are expected to start circulation of petitions for formation of the district within a short time. Signatures of 25 resident property owners are necessary, it was pointed out, to place the matter before the county board of supervisors, who would then call an election. A majority vote would carry the proposition, it was announced.

Literary Ability Revealed By Charm Analysis

By FRANCES TIPTON LONG
Noted Authority on Charm and Personality

Many people have written to me asking how it is possible to tell vocational fitness merely by an examination of handwriting. It isn't possible to answer this question in just a few words, for the subject is entirely too complicated. But in a broad general way, it may be said that the various vocations divide themselves into groups of similarity. Thus the bookkeeper, auditor, accountant, statistician, and so on, come into one group because in all of these vocations the same general qualities are needed for success.

haven't the space to discuss in detail.

The definitely known signs of literary ability invariably show up in an author's handwriting, even though otherwise the scripts of different authors may be very unlike. From an examination of these two writings you would naturally expect Miss Brush to produce an entirely different type of literature from that of Mr. Sinclair. And she does. After all, fiction or otherwise, literature always reflects the character and personality of the writer and it is manifest that, aside from the lit-

Upton Sinclair

The signature of Katherine Brush, in addition to revealing great personal character, shows imagination, originality, creative ability, the knack of judging character, sympathy and culture. A perfect literary script.

Katherine Brush

The signature of Upton Sinclair also shows imagination, originality, creative ability, wit and satire, vision, resourcefulness and persistence. Another strong literary script.

Knowing what those qualities are, it is merely necessary to look for them in a sample of handwriting. If they are there, then the writer is best fitted for one of those vocations. If not, then we must look for another group of vocations requiring the qualities he does possess. And, of course, in any case the necessary technical training must be had.

There are some vocations, however, which reveal themselves directly in handwriting by certain well known signs. At a casual glance, both of the handwritings shown today, would be considered entirely different, without any point of similarity. As a matter of fact, however, the similarity is very great, to those who understand how to read character from handwriting.

Both authors make the sharply pointed "perceptive" letter "n," both display great originality in the letter formations, both show unusual breaks and joinings, the signs of intuition and creative ability. There are other signs which betray literary ability in these handwritings, signs which I erary impulses, the characters and personalities of these two authors differ greatly.

If you are a writer, your script will reveal it. If you have literary ability, that, too, will show in your script. But don't forget that, as in all other professions, technical training is necessary, too. The road to success in authorship is a thorny one. Don't think that, simply because you have talent, editors will outbid each other for your work. Your chances for success are very slim until you master the technique—no matter how much talent you have.

Do you have literary leanings? If your script shows any talent, Mrs. Tipton's Vocational Suggestions will reveal it to you. In your confidential Charm Analysis Mrs. Long will also tell you the Type of Appeal best suited to your personality and will give you much other valuable data. You will also receive, without extra cost, a copy of her famous Charm Chart which reveals all of the Types of Appeal and the film stars who have most successfully developed each type.

Confusing, But Encouraging

A STRIKING illustration of the paradoxical way that our economic system works may be seen in the Orange county agricultural crop report for 1935, just released by Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs. The report shows that although county orchard and field crop growers produced a much larger harvest in 1935 than the year before, they received a lot less money for it.

The discrepancy is especially glaring in the case of the citrus industry. Citrus men in 1935 marketed 11,486,033 boxes of fruit for which they received a total of $20,048,470. But in 1934 a crop of 9,422,029 boxes brought $23,135,377. In short, although growers picked, packed and sold approximately 2,000,000 more boxes of fruit last year than the year before, they grossed about $3,000,000 less. No justice there!

The growers seem to have undergone a rather lean year as a result of the lowered total returns and the increased costs of labor, pest control, and perhaps irrigation. Calculations based on the crop report and Orange county ranching costs show that the average return to the grower per box was $1.74, of which approximately 16 cents remained as profit, return on the investment in the acreage, and payment for the personal management of the grower. With the average yield running 118 boxes to the acre, the net per acre for the year is $30.08. Not much profit in operating a 20-acre ranch on that basis.

Workers in groves and packing houses, however, profited to the extent of the labor required to handle the 2,000,000 boxes of fruit at wages equal to and in some cases higher than those of 1934. If the labor cost involved in handling a box from ranch to freight car is accepted at an average of 55 cents, it means that Orange county citrus workers earned $1,000,000 more in 1935 than they did in 1934!

This money, of course, went immediately into circulation and did a lot to stimulate general business during the citrus season.

In truck, nursery, apiary, and animal industry classifications, the annual crop report struck a profitable note. Returns for the year in those lines were above those for 1934.

Taking the $30,165,414 agricultural income to the county as a lump sum, there's much to be encouraged about. The total may have been nearly $2,000,000 below the 1934 figure—but it was $8,000,000 above the 1933 yield.

Dig Down, Mr. Taxpayer!

JUDGING from President Roosevelt's startling new tax proposals, the "breathing spell" is over and American business is going to get a real run for its money this time. The bill will be in the neighborhood of $1,017,000,000.

In fact, the President says exactly this amount is needed in order to plug up gaps in the administration's financial program which resulted from the supreme court decision against the AAA.

Tax requirements are divided into two groups by Mr. Roosevelt. In the permanent classification he places $500,000,000 annually for the substitute AAA and $120,000,000 a year for the next 10 years to pay off the bonus.

The $620,000,000 needed for this proposed permanent expense would be raised by a tax on the undivided profits of corporations. Since a tax of this type would yield about $1,600,000,000, the President urges that nearly one billion dollars in other federal taxes on corporations be repealed—thus making the net additional tax load on the corporations about $600,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt points out that of the $620,000,000, only $120,000,000 is in reality a new tax, since the $500,000,000 item simply replaces the illegal AAA levy.

In the temporary tax group, the national executive says that $517,000,000 is needed to put into the treasury the half-billion dollars which it counted on getting this year from the AAA, but didn't because of the supreme court decision. He suggests a windfall tax to recapture from processors the money which we consumers paid when we bought food and clothing, but which the processors caused to be impounded and returned to them by the court action. And if the windfall tax doesn't raise enough, he proposes a light excise tax on farm product processors.

These taxes—except for the appropriate and just windfall tax—appear to be a heavy load to strap on a nation which is just recovering from an economic relapse. Very likely they will retard the return of prosperity.

But do not forget—when you dig down into your pockets for $1,017,000,000 a year—that they are made necessary by the bonus and farm relief programs.

All Hail, Fair Maiden!

THE ALMOND blossoms have spread their petaled snow upon the ground, the prune and apricot and peach and cherry buds are bursting into glory, the poppies are beginning to take the green caps from their golden heads, the dog-tooth violet, the shooting star, the Mariposa lily, the lupine and verbena are peeping upward through the grass, and over the mountainsides the wild lilac is beginning to spread its heavenly blue.

This is the first week of March and spring has come to California once more. In the East March means foul and discomforting weather before spring makes her timorous entry in April.

But in California it is her month of welcome and she arrives full-blown in all her glory, daubing meadow, hillside and mountain with her lavish brush of colors.

Whimsies

of O. O. McIntyre

The society photographer from London, Cecil Beaton, is the sartorial woe of the season in both New York and Palm Beach. A languid, drawling fellow he will focus his camera on only "people who matter" and this commercial snobbery has made him a Mayfair pet.

He can spot such flashy dressers as Goadby. Low the blanket on last year's Derby winner and romp down the home-stretch ahead in the Gaudy Dressers' Sweepstakes. Materials that would reddens the cheeks of Broadway's one flight up tailors are worn by him with something of a jolly old dash.

He goes in for three-tone shadings. A chocolate brown coat, an autumn leaf vest and a sand tan pair of pantaloons give the idea. Or perhaps a dinky laped coat of grass green with a Buster Brown bow. Nothing is too bold by day, but at night he quiets down to conventional dinner jacket.

While Beaton holds first place among the disciples of the livelier patterns, the season's most sedate and correctly dressed honors, according to stylists, go to Tullio Carminati, movie actor. He clings to grays, blues and blacks and ties of single shade. A study in monotone.

Prediction: In four years Shirley Temple will be devastatingly enchanting. Girls of 10 are at the optimum of charm, and she will never have to lay off like Jackie Coogan until she grows up. She'll win right through the Awkward Age, too, and be the rarest box office treasure, a feminine comedian. At 6 she has the art of timing to perfection, and her acting already is the smoothest legato on the screen. An actress who doesn't need lines is a miracle. And Shirley doesn't.

My Espionage Department, after much snooping, reports discovery of the American authority on slingshots. And he's a newspaperman—Causten Brown, of the Seattle Times, who went to dancing school in Boston with Robert Benchley. For his special friends he fashions them, completely equipped with heavy rubber bands and a box of No. 0 birdshot. They have the power of a .22 short and are lethal at short range. Stewart Edward White, I read somewhere, is a crack slingshotist.

Jimmy Powers, the comedian of a thousand shows, and a small jury of actors were discussing at The Players what actress of the day past 40 could best play the role of a girl of 16. All agreed upon Jane Cowl.

A haberdasher tells me of a suspender splendor so frequently evidenced among patrons. Often men who buy dollar ties and ready made shirts will let themselves go, bloomy, bloomy, in galluses. But usually the guild is composed of tony dressers. The late Reginald Vanderbilt was one. Not only were his especially designed but trimmings were pure gold and often jeweled. One pair in especial represented an outlay of $300 complete. Actors, notably the matinee idol types, go in for the expensive creations that range from $8 to $15.

Now that most of the critical opinion has been spent, I feel I can limp in with a belated opinion without starting a row. That is about the Charlie Chaplin picture. The feeding machine scene near the beginning of Modern Times is the grandest diaphragmatic laugh ever shown on the screen. But the rest, while not inspiring wrist watch glances, struck me as a so-so resume of the usual and slightly shopworn Chaplin formula. To my notion he caught the ethos of modern times for a little while and then let go. Yet he is never dull. And is a genius with courage.

Perhaps the most thoroughly Pepsian diary of this era was kept by the late Karl K. Kitchen, journalist, bon vivant and world traveler. Since his college days he kept a daily and minute record of every action, including records of his love affairs, etc. But he fortified himself against eventual publication. It was always kept sealed in his safety box, to be destroyed by his executor at death. Shortly before his passing a prominent magazine offered him a small fortune for the post mortem rights.

Neal O'Hara, scampering to a train for Boston and a bit late, inquired of a Grand Central red cap: "That train to Boston hasn't moved yet, has it?" The red cap replied: "No sir, but she's twitchin'."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, March 4.

Probably the greatest deficiency in Herbert Hoover while in the White House was his sense of humor. He had none.

Now, however, the ex-President has blossomed forth. Not only does he smile, but he tells an occasional good story.

Here is one told to friends before an open fire one evening. We do not vouch for the accuracy of the story. But we do vouch for the fact that Herbert Hoover told it.

KING ALBERT

When Albert, late King of the Belgians, paid a visit to this country shortly after the war, he found that the meticulous protocol of the state department required that he pay his respects at the White House before he did anything else of an official nature. But President Wilson was absent and would not return for nearly two weeks.

So, rather than mark time in Washington, King Albert telegraphed to Hoover, whom he had known during food-relief days in Belgium asking if he could visit him in California.

Mr. Hoover wired back: "How many in your party?"

And King Albert's secretary, without consulting His Majesty, wired back: "Sixty-one."

Mr. Hoover says that he was a little dismayed at this, but finally decided that several millionaires living in the California foothills had lost no money by the war, and might well entertain different parts of the king's party. Hoover suggested incidentally, that the king doubtless would want to bestow important decorations on them.

ALBERT'S FRIEND

So King Albert and his retinue arrived.

And as he went out on the first day for a ride through the California hills, he found waiting for him at the gate a picturesque figure on horseback. The visitor greeted him with, "O, King, and announced that he was the local sheriff.

King Albert seemed much taken with the sheriff and spent most of that day riding with him, much to the disgust of his host. Next day the sheriff again waited on the king and again rode with him. Following this the host called in the sheriff, informed him that he made a great mistake in addressing Albert as "O king," that the monarch should be addressed only as "your majesty." Furthermore, the host hired a couple of detectives to guard the king and keep the sheriff at a safe distance.

Next morning the king went riding again. The sheriff was not at the gate. But later Albert saw him riding alone on the top of a ridge. Whereupon the king of the Belgians left his host, the detectives, et al., and spurred his horse on to join his old cronie.

"Good morning, your majesty," greeted the sheriff, hesitating over the pronunciation.

"Why don't you call me 'O king'?" replied Albert. "I like it much better."

As his majesty departed for Washington he bestowed on his hosts the promised decorations. They hung from small pieces of ribbon to be pinned on the chest. But a few days later, the millionaires left his host, the detectives, et al., and spurred his horse on to join his old cronie.

WRONG NUMBER

After King Albert returned East, it was arranged that he should bestow the Order of Leopold on the late Charles A. Sabin, head of the Guaranty Trust company.

This order, it was specified, could only be bestowed properly when the king touched the recipient on the head with his sword.

So it was arranged that, at a reception to the king, Mr. Sabin, whom the king had never met, was to step out of line, wait at one side, while an aide put the decoration over his head and the king touched him with his sword. The recipient looked slightly dazed but went on.

MR. SABIN

A few minutes later, another guest stepped out of line. The king kept on receiving, paid no attention to him. The man coughed, looked slightly nervous, paced back and forth.

Finally an aide said: "Your majesty, there's another man waiting here. I think he's the one to be decorated."

"But we have no more decorations," replied King Albert.

It turned out that the second guest was Charles Sabin. The first was the late Judge Elbert Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation.

He had been pushed out of line. And that is Herbert Hoover's story.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Chester Davis will leave his AAA office shortly. But he is not resigning. He will come back after a rest. . . . Chances are slim that the senate at this session will ratify the sanitary convention with Argentina relaxing the ban on U. S. imports of fresh beef.

Commerce Secretary Dan Roper pronounces the word "auxiliary" as if it were "auxiliary." . . . Only once since the opening of the session has the senate made use of the services of its chaplain, ZeBarney T. Phillips. The number of prayers Phillips will offer during 1936 will probably not exceed six. . . . U. S. marine corps has an officer named Major. His rank also is major, making him Major Major. Initials are H. C. . . . Artist Reginald Marsh, who painted a pair of murals in the new postoffice department building, says that as he stood on the scaffold people stopped to stare at him, missed the traditional colored smock and beret of the painter, asked him when the artist was coming along.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE.—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Politicians Line Up and Ask Aid of God

THE REPUBLICAN chieftains, girding up their loins for battle, plant themselves squarely on the side of righteousness. Mogul-in-chief Fletcher calls upon all "God-fearing citizens" to join their ranks. Thus will the sheep and the goats be sharply divided. The former will be gathered safely into the fold. The latter will be cast into outer darkness, among the ravening wolves.

Presumptuous men make haste to attach God to their side. They don't seem to be so much concerned whether or not they are on the Lord's side. All groups looking for place and power get that way. As Lincoln said in his second inaugural, the North and South "read the same Bible, and pray to the God. Each invokes His aid against the other." Thus do men wage their wars and their politics.

Social unrest does not come altogether from a people's want and misery. The French revolution did not begin in France because the French people were more miserable than other people of Europe. It was because the French people were better off, much better off, than were the Prussians or Austrians, that they struck for better things. A people in hope-

What Other Editors Say

OCTOPUS REACHES OUT

(Alhambra Post-Advocate)

The many-legged squib, more familiarly known as the octopus, has been used for years as the symbol of evil—particularly that kind of evil which seems to permeate society in many directions. No better symbol, from a visual point of view, could be found.

Actually, the octopus is no more predatory than almost any other kind of fish, each of which lives upon his fellows. But the many tentacles, each with its many suckers, coming from the central body, give the average person the willies.

One octopus in this section is growing, and growing in particularly unhealthy fashion. Even this community is not immune from its tentacles. This is the gambling trust, operating illegally in most sections, and "legally" in those few spots where the gambling laws have been "interpreted" to allow the bucketshop and the bookmaking establishment.

Los Angeles is again endeavoring itself to its smaller neighbors by fostering this octopus which is reaching out with greedy arms into every community within hailing distance of the metropolitan area.

The total amount of citizens' income which is diverted from legitimate channels of trade into the maw of this gambling trust is enormous. "Protection" is so well organized that it is next to impossible to get action from constituted authorities in Los Angeles itself against these establishments, and remarkably little has been done against them in the smaller cities of the area.

Santa Paula and Oxnard, in Ventura county, and Pomona, in this county, have closed up their gambling halls. Inglewood revoked its "legal" licenses for such establishments, although whether they are closed or not is not known.

DON'T FORGET THE WOMEN!

(San Francisco News)

It appears that something must now be done about the problem of "forgotten women."

And "forgotten women," according to Dr. Mary R. Beard, publicist, author and military defender of her sex, are those female characters whose part in history and whose contributions to world civilization have never been acknowledged by the men. What is worse, she charges, the foremost historians have almost "totally excluded" women from the picture of world progress.

H. G. Wells, Will Durant, John Erskine and Harry Elmer Barnes stand indicted by Dr. Beard. "Barnes, for instance," she says, "simply does not know the history of women, or that women have any history to be known. And Barnes is a liberal who wants to do right by women."

The least male historians now can do, she suggests, is to pass out credit where it is deserved.

Skinny Skribbles

Jack Williams, who came over from Long Beach to address a service club, did not ask for it, but he was introduced by Claude McDowell who used to work with Williams. It's difficult to get away from old associates, and in this case there appeared no desire to do so, but I've still got to get in touch with Jack to find out if he was satisfied, or whether Guy Gilbert slipped one over on the visitor from Long Beach by allowing Claude to make the introduction.

Art Shipkey and Harry Pearson invite me to dinner, and before they change their minds I accept. It was some sort of an annual affair where they eat first and sell tires afterward. It must have been a sympathetic surrender on the part of Art and Harry, because I do not sell tires.

Launched a political conversation with Charley Chapman. There were so many interruptions before it was finished that we had the right fellows running for the wrong office, Democrats on Republican tickets—but of course without their consent. By the time the gab was completed we had a political potpourri that Frank Keating couldn't explain. It wasn't our fault. We had too much help. Next time I go into a conversation with Charley we will adopt the huddle plan. It's an effective way of avoiding interruptions.

Paul Roberts came over from the Anaconda Wire and Cable company. Paul's concern ought to be reasonably busy this year. He should try and get the contract for the wire pulling to be used by the major political parties. The outlook for a large order.

Met Bill May. The unavoidable topic of politics had to give way to the weather as they have it back in Nebraska, and some which overlapped the southwest part of a Kansas county where Bill has a relative operating the May Seed company. Bill sort of got the idea that seed planting may be a trifle late this year, as there is so much snow it will take longer to get down to the ground. But while they are waiting for the snow to disappear it will give 'em more time to discuss politics.

The organization of a growers grievance committee among Valencia owners is a real idea. If the complaints bunch their hits the committee might just as well go into continuous session.

Funny, isn't it, how the old memory files. Ransacking through some old files find a bunch of magazine clippings which was a relation to return to Pete Ducker of the Edison company, "within the next few days." Well, maybe Pete is patient. Only had 'em four months. And a lot of you folks who are doing the same thing might get on a little better. I don't know. But it's something to think about even if you never return 'em. Which recalls that I have a book in my possession I'll be able to return as the owner went away leaving no address, and he isn't coming back.
